Wiscasset, Me., had a big day in 1813, when the American brig Enterprise met the English brig Boxer, but a short distance outside Wiscasset harbor. The English vessel mounted fourteen guns and was commanded by Captain Samuel Blythe. The Enterprise was of about the same strength and, as the two vessels neared each other Captain Burrows, who commanded the Enterprise, suddenly changed his course and put out to sea. This looked like running away and a delegation of the sallors went to the captain and protested against the action, saying that they wanted to fight. The old sea dog merely shifted his guid of tobacco and replied: "Don't worry, boys, I all the you all the fight you want before you get out of this!" And he kept his word.

Captain Burrows was merely playing Mrs. John Schaal of Green township for time. Burrows refused to be taken below, but continued to direct the battle from a stretcher, and every few Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Harroff left moments would feebly shout: Wednesday for Hanoverton to spend you getting all the fight you want, a week with George Buzard and famboys?

It was a terrific battle and the decks of both vessels were slippery with gore and covered with the dead and dving. Not until 4 o'clock in the afternoon was there any cessation of the struggle and then the Boxer asked for quarter. It was noticed that her flag was still flying and soon it was learned that it had been nailed to the masthead. Against the protests of her officers the flag was torn down and the white flag run up. It was found that the Boxer was literally cut into pieces. Fourteen dead and dying men lay on her deck and among these was Captain Blythe. Others had been thrown overboard so that it was never known how many men were lost in the battle.

"Language" Hath Charms. Few people enjoy a joke more heartlly than Sir Oliver Ledger, the principal of Birmingham university and a foremost authority on many things in this world and some few in the next. Among the stories he is fond of telling is that of a blshop who was walking along a canal towpath when he heard a bargee using very strong language to the horse. The bishop remonstrated in stately terms and pointed out that such profanity was most unseemly. The bargee listened respectfully and then scratched his head ruefully as he replied: "It's all right, gov'nor, I sees what you mean and I'll speak quieter like. But I'm afeard as how it'll be a bit lonesome like for the hoss."
